

ARCHITECTURE AWARDS

As a process, architecture is the activity of designing and constructing buildings and other physical structures by a person or a machine, primarily to provide socially purposeful shelter. A wider definition often includes the design of the total built environment, from the macro level of how a building integrates with its surrounding man made landscape to the micro level of architectural or construction details and, sometimes, furniture. Wider still, architecture is the activity of designing any kind of system.

IAD Awards 2010 gives opportunity to all professional & non-professional architects & town planners working in their specific field of architecture & town planning to show their architectural & planning qualities at national & international levels.

IAD Awards 2010 committee invites entries in different architecture categories for their participation in 3rd annual IAD Awards.
